

I am a life-long resident of the Great State of Indiana. I wish to comment in regard to the Consumer Bankers Association's attempt to weaken Indiana's Telephone Privacy Law. I am opposed to any attempt, by any party(s), to diminish the effectiveness of our Telephone Privacy Law. It is a good law and must be retained exactly as it now stands. Any attempt to weaken this law, whether by petitioning to impose the federal "established business relationship" exemption, or any other "loophole" is not acceptable. As an Indiana resident, I am quite capable of contacting anyone and everyone I wish to communicate or do business with. Were I in need of contacting a member party of the Consumer Bankers Association, or any other solicitor, I am well aware of how to accomplish that task. I am not alone concerning this matter. Indiana residents are not dim-witted. I suspect the same applies to the FCC. Please prove me correct. Do not allow the Consumer Bankers Association's petition to succeed. Thank you for your time.
